Before joining PilieroMazza, Chris clerked for the Honorable Eleni M. Roumel at the United States Court of Federal Claims. There, he drafted opinions and memoranda and prepared for oral arguments on matters related to government contracts, statutory interpretation, and Fair Labor Standards Act and Vaccine Act cases. This experience—combined with his military background—allows Chris to effectively address the unique legal challenges facing clients in the federal procurement marketplace.

Chris also currently serves as a Major in the Air Force Reserve Judge Advocate General's Corps, where he provides legal advice and counsel to commanders and military members on a range of issues. Previously, as a Special Forces commander in the Army, Chris led missions by leveraging and coordinating the efforts of multiple subject matter experts. He then applied his military experience as a product manager for a technology firm, where Chris coordinated efforts to properly support the development, training, and sale of new technology.
